

2014

Playing for Peace: Building relationships between Ugandan and refugee youth through football3 at Soccer Without Borders Uganda

Jean-Christophe Moran
SIT Graduate Institute

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcollections.sit.edu/capstones>

 Part of the African Studies Commons, Civic and Community Engagement Commons, Demography, Population, and Ecology Commons, Family, Life Course, and Society Commons, Inequality and Stratification Commons, Leadership Studies Commons, Peace and Conflict Studies Commons, Social and Cultural Anthropology Commons, and the Social Psychology and Interaction Commons

Recommended Citation

Moran, Jean-Christophe, "Playing for Peace: Building relationships between Ugandan and refugee youth through football3 at Soccer Without Borders Uganda" (2014). Capstone Collection. 2641.
<https://digitalcollections.sit.edu/capstones/2641>

This Thesis (Open Access) is brought to you for free and open access by the SIT Graduate Institute at SIT Digital Collections. It has been accepted for inclusion in Capstone Collection by an authorized administrator of SIT Digital Collections. For more information, please contact digitalcollections@sit.edu.

Abstract

This paper describes and analyzes a soccer tournament for Ugandan and refugee youth based on the principles and practices of football3, an established methodology for using soccer as a means of dialogue and resolution of conflict across differences. The goal of this tournament was to build relationships between Ugandan and refugee youth at Soccer Without Borders Uganda. This tournament was held in 2013 in Kampala under the auspices of Soccer Without Borders Uganda and involved training of staff. The implementation of football3 demonstrated that this methodology could have a positive impact on uniting refugee and Ugandan youth while providing participants with valuable learnings regarding relationship-building through youth empowerment.